

Our Contributors

John Batts is an Associate Professor of English at the University of Ottawa and the author of British Manuscript Diaries of the Nineteenth Century (1976).

Monique Benoit obtained an M.A. from the University of Ottawa where she is also a doctoral student. She prepared the French translation of Conrad Black's Duplessis. She is continuing research in the Vatican Archives while based in Rome at the Canadian Academic Centre in Italy.

Gabrielle Blais has been an archivist in the Social Affairs and Natural Resources Section of the Federal Archives Division of the PAC since 1982. Among other duties, she is responsible for the Records of Parks Canada. She is also the Associate Book Review Editor for Archivaria and Co-Editor of the CHA's Historical Booklet series.

George Bolotenko received his Ph.D. in history from the University of Toronto in 1979. After teaching there and at the Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, he joined the Manuscript Division of the Public Archives of Canada in early 1981.

Ken Chasse is Director of Research for the Ontario Legal Aid Plan. Called to the bar in Ontario in 1966 and in British Columbia in 1978, he was a Crown prosecutor in Toronto until 1976, a special advisor to the federal Department of Justice until 1978, a teacher at various Faculties of Law, and a member and first chairman of the Federal-Provincial Task Force on Uniform Rules of Evidence.

Terry Cook is Chief of the Social Affairs and Natural Resources Section in the Federal Archives Division of the PAC. After various junior editorial stints with Archivaria, he was General Editor of the journal from 1982 to 1984. He also edited the Canadian Historical Association's Historical Papers for four years and since 1982 has been Editor of the CHA's Historical Booklet series. In addition to eight PAC guides and inventories, Dr. Cook has published several articles in both Canadian social and intellectual history and in archival theory and practice.

Mark Hopkins has worked in private and government records since joining the Public Archives of Canada in 1974. He is now Chief, Reference and Information Processing Section, Federal Archives Division, and has previously contributed to Archivaria.

David Jones is a professor in the Faculty of Education at the University of Calgary. He has published frequently in the history of agriculture and education. He is the author of Midways, Judges, and Smooth-Tongued Fakirs: The Illustrated Story of Country Fairs in the Prairie West (1983) and the forthcoming The Land of Cain: Settling and Abandoning the Prairie Dry Belt. He is also the editor of the forthcoming "We'll All Be Buried Down Here": The Prairie Dryland Disaster, 1917-1926 and, with Ian MacPherson, the forthcoming Building Beyond the Homestead: Rural History on the Prairies.

E.A. Kelly is a member of the Historical Division of the Department of External Affairs and a contributor to the forthcoming history of the department.

Richard Kesner is Vice-President for General Services, Multibank Service Corporation, Dedham, Massachusetts. Before accepting his current position, he was Manager of Office Systems and Services for the F.W. Faxon Company of Westwood, Massachusetts. He has been Director of the Archives of Appalachia and a regular contributor to archival, historical, and records management journals. His most recent monographs are Microcomputer Applications in Libraries: A Management Tool for the 1980's and Automating Archival and Records Administration: Planning and Implementation Strategies. He received a doctorate in history from Stanford University in 1977.

Ludwig Kosche is the librarian at the Canadian War Museum in Ottawa. He has published several articles on artifacts which have military interest.

Sam Kula is the Director of the National Film, Television and Sound Archives of the PAC. His recent publications include The Archival Appraisal of Moving Images: A RAMP Study with Guidelines (1983).

John McDonald is Chief of the EDP Information Systems Section in the Machine Readable Archives Division of the PAC. He entered the Public Service in 1975 as a data archivist in that division. From 1981 until his present appointment, he was a project officer with Treasury Board, where he was directly involved in the development of a new administrative policy on the management of EDP data (Chapter 461). He was also involved in the preparation and publication of the Access Register and Privacy Index. He is a member of the Standing Committee on Automated Records Management Systems as well as several committees established by the Government EDP Standards Committee. He recently obtained his masters degree in historical geography from Carleton University.

Paul Rutherford is Chairman of the History Department at the University of Toronto. He has published a number of books and articles on urban history and the history of communication in Canada. His latest book is A Victorian Authority: The Daily Press in Late Nineteenth-Century Canada.

G.P. Scardellato holds a Ph.D. in medieval history from the University of British Columbia. He is now writing a study for the Secretary of State of Italian immigration to British Columbia.

Michael Swift had held various positions with the Public Archives of Canada between 1964 and 1971 when he was appointed Provincial Archivist of New Brunswick; he remained there until he returned to the PAC as Director General of the Archives Branch in 1978, a position he still holds.

Anne Thurston instructs in archives with a specialty in the archives of developing countries at the Institute of Commonwealth Studies, University of London. Dr. Thurston also has been associated with the copying project of the Kenyan National Archives in Great Britain.

Mark Walsh is the Municipal Archivist at the Windsor Public Library. Prior to accepting that position, he was archivist in charge of the microfilm programme at the Hudson's Bay Archives, Provincial Archives of Manitoba. He has studied archival administration at Wayne State University in Detroit.