

Our Contributors

I. Ross Bartlett is a United Church of Canada minister. He is currently working on his doctoral degree in history at the Toronto School of Theology, University of Toronto.

Jim Burant is Acting Chief, Art Acquisition and Research, in the Documentary Art and Photography Division, National Archives of Canada. In addition to several articles, he has published Friendly Spies on the Northern Tour, 1815-1837 (Ottawa, 1981) and The Garrison Years: London, Canada West, 1793-1853 (Ottawa, 1983).

Barry Cahill is Manuscripts Archivist at the Public Archives of Nova Scotia, Halifax, where he has been employed since January 1983. He holds a Master's degree in Classics from Dalhousie University (1977) and an M.Lit. degree in Classics from Oxford University (1982). Since 1986 he has been Editor of the Nova Scotia Historical Review, and is a Councillor on the executive of the Royal Nova Scotia Historical Society.

John P. Campbell holds a Master's degree in American History from the University of Glasgow (1955) and a Ph.D. in American Diplomatic History from Yale University (1961). Since 1961 he has been a member of the Department of History, McMaster University, Hamilton, where he served as Chairman between 1977 and 1983. His recent articles include, "Operation Starkey 1943" published in Intelligence and National Security 2, no. 3 (July 1987).

W.A.B. Douglas, Commander RCN Retired, has been Director of History, National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa since 1973. He has published The Creation of a National Air Force: The Official History of the R.C.A.F., Vol. 2 (Toronto, 1986), and is currently working on a history of Canadian naval operations during the Second World War. He received his M.A. from Dalhousie (1962) and Ph.D. from Queen's (1973).

Jean-Pierre Gagnon travaille comme Historien de formation au Service historique de la Défense nationale où il dirige le Groupe de recherche sur la 5^e brigade du Corps d'armée canadien pendant la Première Guerre mondiale. Il a publié en 1986, aux Presses de l'Université Laval, Le 22^e bataillon (canadien-français), 1914-1919. — Étude socio-militaire.

Donald Fisher Harrison holds an M.A. in History from the University of Rhode Island and a Ph.D. from Georgetown University. Since 1970 he has been employed as an Archivist and Supervisory Archivist with the Machine-Readable Branch, National Archives, Washington, specializing in records of military, intelligence and law enforcement agencies. He was Chief Historian, United States Army Vietnam, Department of the Army (in Saigon) from 1965 to 1966. In 1975 and 1976 he was a member of the Board of Directors, Vietnam War Veterans Archival Project. He is currently editing, along with Nancy H. Loring, Notable Military Women: An International Biographical Dictionary, to be published in 1989.

Robert J. Hayward is currently on secondment from the National Archives to the Information Management Practices Group, Treasury Board Secretariat, Ottawa, a position he has held since 1986. During the life of the Commission of Inquiry on War Criminals (Deschênes Commission) he served on the Interdepartmental Committee on War Criminals representing the interests of the National Archives of Canada. He joined the National Archives in 1972 and prior to his secondment was Chief, Access Section, Government Archives Division.

Eric Krause has held the position of Historical Records Supervisor at the Fortress of Louisbourg, Cape Breton, since 1977. Between 1972 and 1977 he was an Historian with Parks Canada also at the Fortress, and between 1969 and 1972 he was an Historian with Parks Canada in Ottawa. He holds a Master's degree from the University of Windsor, obtained in 1968.

Carman Miller has been Associate Professor in the Department of History, McGill University, Montreal, since 1967. He was Chairman of the Department from 1978 to 1981. In 1980 he published The Canadian Career of the Fourth Earl of Minto (Waterloo). He has written extensively on Canada and the South African War.

Jeffrey S. Murray is a Map Archivist with the Cartographic and Architectural Archives Division, National Archives of Canada, where he is responsible for cartographic records from the late-nineteenth and early-twentieth centuries. Formerly a Regional Archaeologist with the Canadian Parks Service, Environment Canada, Mr. Murray's more recent publications include articles in Geographical Magazine, The Beaver, Archaeology, and The Archivist. He is the Review Editor of the Association of Canadian Map Libraries and Archives Bulletin.

Bernard Pothier is Historian, Pre-Confederation, with the Canadian War Museum, Ottawa, a position he has held since 1971. In 1982 he published a critical edition of the 1744 campaign journal of François Du Pont Duvivier, Course à l'Accadie (Moncton). In 1986-87 he organized the archives of the Canadian War Museum.

Peter Robertson, an Archivist with the Documentary Art and Photography Division of the National Archives of Canada and the next General Editor of Archivaria, is the author of Relentless Verity: Canadian Military Photographers since 1885.

Andrew C. Rodger is an Archivist with the Documentary Art and Photography Division, of National Archives of Canada where he has been employed since 1975.

David Ross is Military Curator, Canadian Parks Service (formerly Parks Canada), Prairie and Northern Region, Winnipeg, a position he has held since 1983. He has worked at the Glenbow Museum, Calgary; the Alberta Provincial Museum, Edmonton; and the Manitoba Museum of Man and Nature, Winnipeg. Prior to joining Parks Canada he was Director of the New Brunswick Museum, Saint John. One of his recent publications is The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, 1873-1987 (London, 1987).

R.H. Roy is currently Professor of Military History at the University of Victoria, British Columbia, having joined the Department of History there in 1959. He has published numerous books and articles on military history, including 1944: The Canadians in Normandy (Toronto, 1984). He worked from 1951 to 1953 with Col. C.P. Stacey, Army Historical Section, National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa.

M. Stephen Salmon is an Archivist in the Manuscript Division of the National Archives of Canada. He is co-compiler (with Lewis R. Fischer) of the Canadian Maritime Bibliography for 1986 and he is also a Member of the Editorial Board of FreshWater: A Journal of Great Lakes Marine History.

G.A. Stepler holds a doctorate from Oxford University (1985) and is currently living in England where he is turning his doctoral thesis on the eighteenth-century soldier into a book to be published by Cambridge University Press. Prior to his graduate work in England he was an historian for Parks Canada, Ottawa, for five years.