Complementary to the library, a Union Finding List of printed books and articles on Alberta available in Edmonton has been compiled in loose-leaf binders and will grow as references are received. This has been based on Peel's Bibliography of the Prairie Provinces and extended to cover additional categories.

MANITOBA

Towards the end of 1966 the Civil Service put into operation the first step of a new pay plan for professional personnel. All professional positions (including Archivists and Librarians) were evaluated under a Professional Officer classification with a general increase in salary. A further increase is anticipated in 1967 when individuals within the new classifications will have received "merit" ratings.

Accessioned during the year were the diaries of D. U. Campbell (1869-1873) an Ontario man imprisoned by Louis Riel during the Red River disturbances. A surprising discovery in the Winnipeg area during the year was a substantial collection of letters of Louis Riel and his family covering the period 1869-1920. This material included the draft of a letter of Louis Riel in 1876 to President Hayes of the United States outlining a plan for the re-establishment of a Provincial Government by Riel in the west.

The papers of T. A. Crerar, housed by the Archives for some fifteen years, were transferred during the year to Queen's University.

Public Records transferred to the Archives included the Minute Books of the Protestant and Catholic sections of the Board of Education 1871-1890 and the Advisory Board of Education 1890-1962; Orders-in-Council 1878-1933; correspondence, minutes, working papers of the Post War Reconstruction Committee 1944-1946.

ONTARIO

Miss E. Harlow was appointed Archivist of the University of Toronto last October. She was awarded her A.M.L.S. by the University of Michigan in 1965. The staff of the University Archives consists of 2 professional librarians and 2 clericals.

As the Archives have only recently been organized as a separate section of the University of Toronto Library system, within the Department of Rare Books and Special Collections, its holdings are not yet great. Manuscripts deposits, official records (printed or manuscript), photographs, microfilm, theses and miscellaneous materials occupy
